Dear Governor Baldacci and Members of the 125th Legislature:
The statutorily created Juvenile Justice Advisory Group (JJAG) of Maine presents to you the 2009 Annual Report. We think you will find the information quite enlightening with regard to the activities of the JJAG and its work in the criminal justice arena as it impacts Maine's most precious commodity, our youth.

Over the years, the JJAG has gone through many changes and made many improvements. You can see from our membership that we are quite diverse and look at the criminal justice system from a variety of perspectives, always seeking better solutions and methods of dealing with juveniles who become involved with the criminal justice system.

It is truly a great honor for each and every one of us to serve the state and its youth in our appointed capacities. We hope you find the information valuable and useful to you in your coming deliberations.

Sincerely,

The Chair welcomed under unanimous consent Bruce Myrick of Sabattus for the purpose of addressing the Convention.

Bruce MYRICK: When I first got to know a young boy named Paul LePage, I never would have thought I would be standing here today and Paul becoming Maine's next Governor.

I'm sure most of you have heard about the early parts of Paul's life. His struggles, the difficult circumstances of his family life and the fact that he overcame them. He worked very hard to get through high school, college, then to earn an advanced degree. He became a success in business and now he will be Maine's next Governor.

Paul always gives credit to people like me and my family, Eddie Collins and the Collins family, Peter Snowe and others for helping him along the way. We did, but it was Paul who worked hard to succeed, push himself and overcome. I see that same drive and determination in him today as he takes on Maine's challenges, our economy and tough budgets.

As an owner of a small family business, Paul has helped me get the job done many times. Now I can see he is focused on using that drive and determination to get Maine's job done.

When I look back it makes me realize that many of us never know the things we do, big or small, can truly impact others. As Mainers we should recognize and appreciate the people who volunteer in our community every day and the ones that are there just helping a neighbor. Paul says together we can move Maine forward. He's right and he's a product of that spirit. We're very proud of you, Paul.

On motion of Senator PLOWMAN of Penobscot, it was ORDERED, that a committee be appointed to wait upon the Honorable Paul Richard LePage, Governor-elect, and inform him that the two branches of the Legislature are in Convention assembled, ready to administer to him the oaths required by the Constitution to qualify him to enter upon the discharge of his official duties and receive such communication as he may be pleased to make.

The Chair will appoint:

- The Senator from Somerset, Senator Thomas
- The Senator from York, Senator Collins
- The Senator from York, Senator Sullivan
- The Representative from China, Representative Cotta
- The Representative from Farmington, Representative Harvell
- The Representative from York, Representative Moulton

- The Representative from Sanford, Representative Boland

- The Representative from North Yarmouth, Representative Graham

Subsequently, Senator THOMAS of Somerset, for the Committee, reported that the Committee had delivered the message with which it was charged and was pleased to report that the Honorable Paul Richard LePage, Governor-elect, would attend forthwith.

The Chair recognized the men and women serving our nation and our state in uniform. In their honor, the Chair noted the empty row of chairs to his right recognizing their absence. The Chair then asked current service members and veterans to rise and accept the greetings of the Convention.

Thereupon, the Governor-elect, Paul Richard LePage, before the presiding officer of the Joint Convention, the Honorable Kevin L. Raye, in the presence of both branches of the Legislature and the Justices, took and subscribed the oaths required by the Constitution (wife Ann held the Bible) to qualify him to enter upon the discharge of his official duties.

I, PAUL RICHARD LePAGE, DO SWEAR, THAT I WILL SUPPORT THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES AND OF THIS STATE, SO LONG AS I SHALL CONTINUE A CITIZEN THEREOF. SO HELP ME GOD.

I, PAUL RICHARD LePAGE, DO SWEAR, THAT I WILL FAITHFULLY DISCHARGE, TO THE BEST OF MY ABILITIES, THE DUTIES INCUMBENT ON ME AS GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF MAINE, ACCORDING TO THE CONSTITUTION AND LAWS OF THE STATE. SO HELP ME GOD.

The Chair then called upon the Deputy Secretary of State, Charles Summers, to read the proclamation.

PROCLAMATION

The vote given on the second day of November last, in the cities and towns and plantations of the State of Maine for Governor, the returns of which have been made to the Office of Secretary of State, having been examined and counted by the Legislature which has declared a plurality thereof was given to Paul Richard LePage. GOD SAVE THE STATE OF MAINE

The Chair of the Convention then presented the Honorable Governor of the Great State of Maine, Paul Richard LePage, to the Convention, amid applause, the audience rising.

Governor LePAGE: Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Members of the 125th Legislature, Governor Baldacci, former Governors King, McKernan, Brennan and honored guests. I welcome you and I thank you.

Mainers have a long tradition of being hardworking and working together.

As I begin I would like to thank John Baldacci. John, Karen and his entire administration did everything asked and more to make this transition a success. Ann and I are very grateful, and we join all Mainers in thanking the Baldaccis for their service to city, to state and to the nation.

This morning when I was up and getting ready to come over, my wife handed me a note from my daughter, and I will tell you it was very difficult for me to keep my composure. It was heartfelt, it was absolutely terrific, and I just can't say enough about how proud I am of my wife Ann and my family for being there, for loving, for supporting me these past 16 months.

This campaign started when they said, well, the first week was, who in the heck is this guy? Then about January, you know they're saying there's this LePage fellow out there, you know? And then about the middle of May they're saying, you know, there's a dark horse in the field, and on June 9 they were calling me Secretariat.

Well, first and foremost, I am a businessman who served his community as a Mayor and now as its Governor. My pledge to Maine People is very simple. It's going to be people ahead of politics.

My concern as I enter this new challenge of life is for the parents trying to make a better life for their kids; the retirees trying to survive and keep their homes on a fixed income; the college graduate trying to find a good paying job; the entrepreneurs with the courage to take risks to create jobs; and finally, and the most important, to the Maine taxpayers who are tired of footing the bill for the bloated establishment in Augusta.

It is time to make state government accountable. It is time to deliver value to our taxpayers. It is time to put people ahead of politics.

The word "people," appears in the Maine Constitution 49 times. You cannot find a single mention of the words "politics," "Republican," "Democrat," "Green," or "Independent" in 37 pages of preambles, articles and sections of our Constitution. The framers had it right. People.

Partisan affiliations, political leanings and the obsession with winning and losing have been getting in the way of solving our problems. We need a new approach. It starts here, it starts today and I need all of your help.

I am willing to listen and work constructively with anyone committed to honest solutions that will benefit Maine people. To ensure I get plenty of input, I will be hosting monthly breakfast meetings with groups of teachers, business people, environmental people. And oatmeal and solutions are going to be on the menu.

The last two mornings the staff has made me oatmeal, and it's piling up because I get up and I run out of the house. So be attentive, it's oatmeal.

I intend to re-introduce Governor McKernan's "Capitol for a day program." We are going to have town hall meetings on a monthly basis in all of our counties. It is my intention for myself and our commissioners to go around and learn from Maine people what they want their state to look like.

I will host constituent service hours to meet directly with Maine people. Come in, share your concerns, provide some ideas. If we disagree, I assure you we will talk about areas of common ground so we can inch forward because, folks, I'm not going backwards.

While I will listen to anyone, my Administration will be focused on making Maine work for everyone. There are no favorites, no carve outs, or favors for special interests. Good policy is public policy for everyone in Maine.

There is no greater example of serving the common good than the sacrifice our service men and women make every day. The peaceful transfer of power, our rights and our liberties are not free. They are earned each and every day by those who serve.

Forty-Six service members from Maine have made the ultimate sacrifice in defense of our state and our nation in the last seven years. I am honored that some of the families of our fallen heroes are here today.

Dan and Suzanne Brochu along with their daughter Sadie are here with us. They lost Private First Class Jordan Brochu in Afghanistan in August of 2009. Starting tomorrow morning, Suzanne will be the receptionist in the Office of the Governor.

The family of Corporal Andrew Hutchins of New Portland is also with us. Corporal Hutchins gave his life in service to Maine and the Nation last November in Afghanistan. Corporal Hutchins' wife Heather is due to give birth to their first child, Allyssa Braelynn, in March.

All of Maine shares the sorrow of the families of our fallen heroes and we honor their service to protect our lives and our liberties. Ladies and Gentlemen, please join me in a moment of silence to honor the sacrifices of our fallen heroes and to reflect on the loss their family members continue to endure each day that we remain free. Thank You.

One area where we must put politics and special interests aside is our education system. Students are the most important people in the classroom. Every decision we make and every dollar we spend must be focused on the individualized needs of each child.

Our standards must be higher, administrations must be leaner, the dollars must go to the classroom, and most of all we have to find the solutions to make Maine the number one state that shows the standard for education in this country.

I believe we must bring vocational education back as a priority in our schools. Training our young people in a trade while they earn their diploma is a path to a better life.

In addition, and you're going to find me very passionate about this program, is I believe we need to create a five-year high school program in Maine where students can graduate with an associate's degree as a head's up in going into the workforce or as credit towards a four-year diploma degree at the university or college level. I believe this will do two very important things. It allows our youth to be in their support systems one extra year and it lowers the cost of education, the high cost of education, at the university level. And I really hope that both sides of the aisle can come to grips with educating the most important asset in this state, and it's our kids.

Approximately one in every three Mainers is on some form of state or local government assistance for food, shelter, income or health care. For the truly needy and impaired, these programs are an important lifeline and we must maintain them.

While we are a very generous people, we do not have the ability to pay for everyone and we do have limits on our resources. The programs in Maine need to focus on Maine residents, they must focus our efforts to move people from dependency to self-sufficiency and we must implement a tiered system that rewards work and progress towards self-sufficiency. And we need to have a limit. It cannot be a lifetime career. It needs to have a start and an end.

I recently met Jennifer Cloukey, a single mother of four children and a full time nursing student. Like me, Jennifer escaped from some very tough times. Jennifer works two or three jobs at any given time but has to rely on Temporary Assistance to Needy Families and the Food Supplement Program to make ends meet for her and her four children. Seven years ago, she built a home through the help of Habitat for Humanity. Jennifer was determined to be a good example to her kids and other single moms. This coming May she will be graduating from Nursing School.

Nearly every day someone asks Jen how she does it. She tells all that will listen that a life well lived does not happen overnight.

Today, Jennifer, all of Maine is listening and I am proud to share your story. In my administration your example will be our goal, and eventually the norm.

Ladies and Gentlemen, there are so many Jennifer's in the State of Maine who want to move ahead. We need to provide the leadership so that they can all move ahead, and we can all applaud people like Jennifer.

My favorite subject, business. Maine is the hardest place in the country to start and grow a business. Consequently, Mainers earn on average 80% of the per capita income in this country and we are failing desperately to make the investments needed to grow our tax base.

Folks, and my staff gets real nervous when I use two words: "quite frankly." That means I am going off on a tangent. Only the private sector can create the jobs and investment we need to move this state forward. Profit is not a dirty word. In fact it is the direct and indirect solution to our challenges.

The search for profit is what drives investment and innovation. Without profit, no one has an incentive to create jobs or build a tax base. Profit is what keeps our youth from leaving Maine in search of better opportunities.

Profit is what makes the public sector possible. Without profit, we do not have economic activity, and we do not have income to grow the tax base. Therefore, profit pays the bills.

Profit leads to more competition. And through competition "We the People" end up with more choice and greater value.

Every private or public sector job, every program, every non-profit, every state service and every advancement in society started because someone took a nickel worth of input and turned it into a dime worth of output. It is a trend that has to continue and here are four steps to make it happen.

One, simplicity: It needs to get a lot easier to do business in the State of Maine. We are conducting a state-wide Red Tape removal audit to identify the statutes, rules and the road blocks that prevent us from creating the jobs that we need. Be mindful. I believe in vigorous regulations. I believe in strong protections. However, the safeguards need to be clear, decisions quick and we need to have a cooperative relationship between regulators and the private sector.

Second, savings: It needs to be less expensive to do business in Maine. Everything from licensing a business, health care, workers compensation and utility costs all need to go down.

Business is nothing but a math game. It is the same for everyone whether you're an international player in the paper industry or the corner deli, you need to reach a breakeven point.

The costs that we can control through public policy need to be addressed. Our forests, fisheries and farmland will never reach their economic potential in Maine if it is cheaper elsewhere to operate factories that turn wood into paper, process fish into meals and potatoes into my wife's favorite, chips.

Finally, skills: We need to train the next generation of workers in Maine to prepare them for the industries that will offer the most potential. We have one of the world's best Science and Math magnet schools in Limestone, Maine. It is run by motivated teachers, motivated students and affordable access so it can be made to work.

Representative Terry Hayes, the Assistant Democratic Leader in the Maine House of Representatives, is a proud magnet school mom. Her son Danny participated in a one-week summer program and applied and enrolled in the magnet school because he had an interest in math and science.

Ladies and Gentlemen, today Danny is a Dean's list student at the engineering school at the University of Maine who aspires to live in Maine. We the elected officials need to work together to make sure Danny Hayes, and others like him, can stay close to home, earn a living and raise their families.

And I have a lot of finallys. Here is the next one. Scale: We need to provide our industries with competitive advantages in costs, regulatory environment and trained labor for us to succeed. We are fighting for the future of Maine every single day on a global basis. That is how we are going to achieve a competitive nature, is we need to have balance. We need to find the right balance between the environment, between education, and most importantly, competitive workforce. If we do that we can return the State of Maine to a competitive contributor to the world economy, and we will be in a position to attract the new industries of information technology, biotechnology, semi-conductors and all of the new world economies. We need to find balance in Maine, but we need to do it together. It can only be done if we do it together. The Senate, the House, the Governor and, most importantly, the people of the State of Maine.

In closing, I'd like to say I ran for Governor because I know how to run a business, I know how to create jobs. In my experience you build a team, you make decisions and you stand accountable for your actions.

I will spend every day of the next four years working to make Maine a better place for all Maine people. I will start by asking one simple question. Can a Governor do it alone? And the answer is simply, again, no. Exactly. It is going to take hard work from everyone and I am ready to provide the leadership, the focus to move the State of Maine forward.

I do not care about editorials, opinion polls or the next election because, frankly, I have four years and a job to do. In four years I will stand accountable for the jobs that we create, for the prosperity that we bring to our state.

Being Governor is not about me, it is not about my administration, it is not about the Legislature, it is not about Augusta bureaucrats. It is about Maine people, and I am going to let Maine people judge how Maine moves forward in the next four years.

Thank you for being here. Thank you for listening. And let's get to work. Thank you.

At the conclusion of the address, Benediction was given by the Reverend Kenneth Dutille, Jr., Clergy of the Maine Sea Coast Mission of Bar Harbor and Pastor of Swan's Island Baptist Church.

The Governor then withdrew amid the applause from the Convention, the audience rising.

The purpose for which this Convention was assembled having been accomplished, the Chair declared the same dissolved.
