15 SUMMARY

This amendment removes those provisions of Committee Amendment "A" that specify the type of physical restraint that may be used and removes the prohibition on the use of seclusion. Instead, this amendment allows physical restraint and seclusion to be used only as an emergency intervention when the behavior of a student presents a risk of injury or harm to the student or others and only in accordance with rules adopted by the Department of Education. This amendment provides specific authority to the department to adopt rules regarding the use of physical restraint and seclusion and requires the rules adopted by the department to be substantially the same as the department's current rule regarding the use of physical restraint and seclusion. Finally, this amendment requires the department's current rule regarding the use of physical restraint and seclusion to remain in effect until the new major substantive rules are approved.
