40 2. It changes the criteria that the commission uses to give preference to proposals.

2 between one or more transmission and distribution utilities and the bidder of any proposal
3 selected by the commission from May 1, 2022 to November 1, 2022.

4 4. If at the close of the competitive bidding process the commission determines that 5 no proposal meets the requirements described in law or that approval of a contract or 6 contracts is not in the public interest, it allows the commission to reject all proposals and 7 open a new competitive bidding process.

8 5. It eliminates the cap on the capacity, renewable energy or renewable energy credits
9 that the commission may approve.

10 6. It allows the commission to use or direct one or more transmission and distribution
11 utilities as contracting parties to participate in a regional or multistate competitive market
12 or solicitation.

13 7. It provides that the commission may consider only proposals for the construction of
