Discussion of 2014 CTPC Assessment

During its previous meeting on February 24, 2014, the CTPC reviewed the Assessment process. By law, the CTPC is required to conduct a biennial Assessment “of the impacts of international trade agreements on Maine's state laws, municipal laws, working conditions and business environment.” (10 MRSA §11(9)C). The CTPC considered a list of possible candidates at its 2/24/14 meeting and authorized the Chairs and staff person Lock Kiermaier to develop a descriptive piece about the Assessment process and to solicit possible candidates for their interest in conducting an Assessment focusing on the TTIP and its possible effects on agriculture in Maine with specific attention to:

- Farm-to-School and other procurement provisions favoring local food and agriculture; and
- Agricultural policies including direct and indirect subsidies relevant to Maine such as dairy supports and tax policies favoring farming easements.

Mr. Kiermaier reported that significant interest had been shown by Karen Hansen-Kuhn, Director of International Strategies for the Institute for Agriculture and Trade Policy located in Washington DC. Mr. Kiermaier reminded the CTPC that Ms. Hansen-Kuhn had testified on agricultural matters by phone at the CTPC’s most recent public hearing and also informed them that she had recently authored a paper directly pertinent to this year’s assessment topics entitled, “Promises and Perils of the TTIP; Negotiating a Transatlantic Agricultural Market” (October 2013). In expressing her interest in being considered for as a candidate for conducting the assessment, Ms. Hansen-Kuhn indicated that she was hopeful that she could partner with a local source that was significantly knowledgeable about Maine agriculture and related policies.

Upon consideration of Ms. Hansen-Kuhn's suggestion, and after consultation with the CTPC Chairs, Mr. Kiermaier contacted John Piotti, former legislator and current President of the Maine Farmland Trust, to gauge his possible interest in partnering with Ms. Hansen-Kuhn on conducting the assessment. Mr. Kiermaier also reminded the CTPC that Mr. Piotti had also testified at the recent CTPC public hearing and that his testimony on dairy subsidies had partially triggered the CTPC interest in this year's assessment topic. Mr. Kiermaier reported to the CTPC that Mr. Piotti had relayed to him his interest in the partnership with Ms. Hansen-Kuhn to conduct the 2014 Assessment.

Mr. Kiermaier presented the CTPC with brief biographies and resumes for Ms. Hansen-Kuhn and Mr. Piotti. After a discussion, CTPC member Dr. Joel Kase made a motion that the 2014 CTPC Assessment be conducted by Ms. Hansen-Kuhn and Mr. Piotti and that staff should pursue completion of the necessary contract to accomplish this responsibility. This motion was seconded by John Palmer and approved unanimously by the members present.

Discussion of possible written CTPC testimony for Committee on Ways and Means

On the next agenda item, Mr. Kiermaier referred commission members to 2 page announcement from the US House Ways and Means Committee which describes an April 3, 2014 hearing on President Obama's 2014 Trade Policy Agenda which will include in-person testimony from USTR Michael Froman. The announcement also invites written testimony to be submitted by April 17, 2014.

After discussion, CTPC member Representative Jeff McCabe made a motion that CTPC staff be authorized to work with the CTPC Chairs to develop written testimony which draws upon previous CTPC letters and positions and to submit this written testimony from the CTPC to the House Ways and Means Committee. This motion was seconded by Senator John Patrick and unanimously approved by all the members present.

Discussion of attendance at TTIP stakeholder meeting in Washington DC in mid-May

Next, CTPC Chair Representative Sharon A. Treat informed the CTPC that there was likely to be another TTIP stakeholders sponsored by the USTR which will be held in mid-May in Washington DC. Representative Treat also informed the CTPC that there appears to be adequate funds in the CTPC account to accommodate the travel costs of perhaps 2 CTPC members to this meeting.

During a discussion of this possibility, Representative Treat urged that any member interested in representing the CTPC at this meeting should follow through with a request to the Chairs. Upon further discussion, without a formal motion or vote, the members present urged that Representative Treat should attend and agreed that any other interested member should also attend. Representative Treat pledged to inform the CTPC if and when such a meeting is scheduled.

Review of current status of the TTP and TTIP (Representative Sharon Anglin Treat)

Due to an impending need for the legislative members of the CTPC to return to an afternoon session of the Legislature, Representative Treat kept her remarks short by saying that not much visible progress had been made on either the TPP or the TTIP and referred to the various article of interest that were being presented as the final item on the agenda.

Articles of interest

As the final item on the agenda, staff person Lock Kiermaier presented a summary of 20 articles pertaining to international trade subjects. Commission members reviewed the summary document as well as copies of the 20 articles.

Adjournment

Representative Treat adjourned the meeting at approximately 2:00 PM.

To begin the meeting, Representative Treat asked Commission members to introduce themselves.

Review of current status of TPP and TTIP

Representative Sharon A. Treat made a brief presentation consisting of an overview of the following topics:

1. The TPP is currently at the endgame of the negotiating phase although it is unlikely that the treaty will be finalized within the next few months. In addition, Representative Treat mentioned that over 40 state Attorneys General had signed a letter to the USTR urging a complete carve-out of tobacco provisions from the TPP;
2. Representative Treat also reported that the USTR and other TPP negotiators are currently considering significant changes in proposals for pharmaceutical reimbursements and that as a USTR cleared adviser she has received several confidential briefings on this topic which indicate that the proposed changes are moving in the right direction;
3. The status of Fast Track (Trade Promotion Authority) is that it is stalled in Congress at the present time and that Majority Leader Harry Reid has publically stated that it will not be brought up for consideration in the Senate until after the fall elections;
4. Representative Treat also reported on a recent briefing from USTR for cleared advisers on the TPP that she attended. The meeting was scheduled with very little notice for February 11th and she felt that the real purpose was more for public relations as opposed to providing substantive information about the TPP negotiations;
5. Representative Treat also reported that USTR Michael Froman has proposed the creation of a new public interest advisory committee which probably will be comprised of academics and industry representatives. She offered her opinion that this proposal probably won't mean much in terms of increased transparency for the manner in which the USTR negotiates international trade agreements like the TPP and the TTIP.

Discussion of draft letters to the USTR on ISDS, procurement and pharmaceuticals

The next item on the agenda was a discussion regarding 3 draft letters to the USTR on the topics of ISDS, procurement and pharmaceuticals. These letters were drafted for the commission's possible approval by Representative Treat and staff person Lock Kiermaier:

- The ISDS letter called for a period of public consultation and the public release of investor-state dispute settlement proposals, consistent with recent announcements of the European Union to increase transparency and consultation in ongoing EU-US trade negotiations. After discussion, Representative Ayotte made a motion that the letter be approved, Senator Patrick seconded the motion and the motion was unanimously approved;
- The pharmaceutical letter urged action to protect access to affordable medicines in the Trans-Pacific Partnership Agreement (TPP). After discussion, Senator Patrick made a motion that the letter with certain changes be approved, Representative Ayotte seconded the motion and the motion was unanimously approved; and
- The procurement letter asked for assurances that negotiations on a trade agreement with the European Union (Trans-Atlantic Trade & Investment Agreement or TTIP) will not override Maine's agricultural and local food policies. After discussion, John Palmer made a motion that the letter with minor editing corrections be approved, Harry Ricker seconded the motion and the motion was unanimously approved.

Discussion of 2014 CTPC Assessment

For the next item on the agenda, staff person Lock Kiermaier presented a paper which discussed the statutory requirement that the CTPC must conduct a biannual assessment of a relevant international trade topic and how that topic(s) affects the state of Maine. This paper also described the process used by the CTPC to conduct its 2012 assessment, reviewed a number of possible topics for the 2014 assessment, reviewed a list of possible candidates to conduct the upcoming assessment and reported that the CTPC has $10,000 that is reserved for the costs of conducting the assessment.

After discussion, the members present agreed to the following:

- That the topic for the 2014 assessment should be focused on the TTIP and agriculture with specific attention to;
 - Farm-to-School and other procurement provisions; and
 - Agricultural policies relevant to Maine such as dairy supports.
- That an effort should be made to find in-state or regional candidates to conduct the assessment that are properly qualified in both of these topics as well as the fundamentals of international trade agreements such as the TTIP; and
- That staff person Lock Kiermaier would prepare a brief synopsis of the overall agricultural topic for review by the commission.

Review draft of 2013 Annual Report of the CTPC

Next, staff person Lock Kiermaier presented a draft of the 2013 Annual Report of the CTPC. Mr. Kiermaier explained that current CTPC law requires that the commission issue an annual report on its activities and that the 2013 draft report largely follows the format, content and tone of previous annual reports issued by the CTPC.

After discussion, the commission members asked that the draft report be revised to include a description of the two public hearings conducted by the CTPC in 2013 and that the final report with these revisions be submitted to the Legislature.
