 - D. Needs of nonspouse additional dependents in the amounts of 15% for the first dependent and 10% each for the 2nd and 3rd dependents and 5% for each additional dependent; and
 - E. After applying all of the deductions under paragraphs A to D, the applicable deduction of: 60% of income below the federal nonfarm income poverty level as defined by the federal Office of Management and Budget and revised annually in accordance with the United States Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981, Section 673(2); 40% of income between the federal nonfarm income poverty level and 200% of the nonfarm income poverty level; or 20% of income between the federal nonfarm income poverty level and 400% of the nonfarm income poverty level.
 - 4. Net income. "Net income" means the self-reported, after-tax income of a defendant from all sources, minus deductions, supported by sworn affidavit for the one-year period prior to the date of the offense under this Title. The court in its discretion may adjust net income reported by the defendant up or down, based on clear and convincing evidence that the defendant earned income of a different amount and may adjust net income to reflect a change in circumstances and to better represent the defendant's average income. For a person with little or no income and income in an unascertainable amount, the court in its discretion may establish net income based on the amount of the defendant's self-reported benefits received in the prior 12 months, minus deductions, and any adjustment to those figures to more accurately represent the defendant's income.
 - 5. Offense unit. "Offense unit" means the numerical value, which must be an integer between one and 120, that is assigned to each crime or civil violation.
 - 6. Proportional fine. "Proportional fine" means the product of the offense unit and the quotient of the net income of the defendant divided by 365.

§1783. Proportional Fine Commission

The Proportional Fine Commission, established in Title 5, section 12004-J, subsection 11-A, shall assign to each criminal and civil violation of this Title an offense unit for the purposes of implementing proportional fines throughout the State.

- 1. Membership. The commission consists of 9 members. The members include a representative of the judicial branch who is a judge or justice appointed by the Governor, the dean of the University of Maine School of Law or the designee of the dean and the following members who are appointed by the Governor subject to confirmation by the Senate:
- A. An employee of the Office of the Attorney General, a district attorney or an assistant district attorney;
- B. An attorney who practices as a defense attorney for clients who qualify for court-appointed counsel;
- C. A representative of an agency that provides pretrial services;
- D. An employee of the Department of Corrections who provides probation services under Title 34-A, chapter 5, subchapter 3;

- E. A representative of an agency that provides public assistance services or that serves lower-income communities;
 - F. A representative of a statewide organization working for the protection of constitutional rights; and
 - G. An expert in the field of sentencing or criminology.

- 2. Membership; volunteer service. Members of the commission shall serve for terms of 5 years and may serve 2 consecutive terms. Members whose terms have expired continue to serve until their successors have been confirmed by the Senate. Vacancies must be filled in the manner in which the original appointment was made. Members serve as volunteers and are not paid for their service on the commission. Members may be reimbursed for necessary expenses of serving on the commission.
- 3. Chair; meetings. The Governor shall appoint a member of the commission to serve as chair for a term of 2 years. The chair shall convene all meetings of the commission. The commission shall meet at least once per year for the first 5 years and at least every 2 years thereafter.
- 4. List of offenses and determination of offense units. The commission shall review all criminal and civil violations under this Title and shall make a list of those crimes and civil violations and the fines assigned to each crime or civil violation in effect on the effective date of this subchapter. The commission shall assign an offense unit to each crime and civil violation. The commission shall compile, analyze, publish and distribute to the public information related to the compilation of criminal and civil violations, the assignment of an offense unit to each crime and civil violation and the performance by the commission of its duties.
- 5. Data related to fines imposed and collected, payment rates and compliance data. The commission shall collect data related to the imposition of proportional fines by the court in accordance with this subchapter and shall distribute public information regarding proportional fines imposed, fines collected, payment rates, average and median fines by crime or civil violation and data indicating payment in accordance with the court order. The data must be broken down by the demographic variables of race and income.
- 6. New criminal and civil offenses. The commission shall meet within 45 days of the effective date of any legislation establishing a new violation of this Title in order to review the new violation for determination of the offense units to be assigned to the crime or civil violation. Within 75 days after the effective date of legislation establishing a new crime or civil violation under this Title, the commission shall determine the offense unit to be assigned to the crime or civil violation and shall publish a revised list of all designated crimes and civil violations and their offense units. The commission shall submit the list to the joint standing committee having jurisdiction over criminal justice and public safety matters. The joint standing committee may submit legislation necessary to establish an offense unit.

§1784. Proportional fine system

Beginning January 1, 2023, the provisions of chapter 61 and this subchapter govern the procedures of the court in ordering payment of a fine for conviction of a crime or adjudication of a civil violation under this Title for which an offense unit has been established by the Legislature.

1. Calculation of fine amount; payment. In calculating the amount of a fine, the court, in addition to the procedures required in chapter 61 and any other law, shall determine the proportional fine as provided in this subsection.

- A. The court shall require a defendant to file a statement of net income and deductions as provided in rules adopted by the court.
- B. If a defendant does not file a statement of net income and deductions as required in paragraph A or if the defendant deliberately misleads the court as to income or deductions and the defendant fails to demonstrate by a preponderance of the evidence why the defendant is unable to comply with the requirement to file the statement of net income and deductions, the court may order a fine up to the maximum fine for the crime or civil violation.
- C. Except as provided in this paragraph, the court shall determine the amount of the fine for a crime or civil violation by calculating the product of the offense unit and the quotient of the net income of the defendant divided by 365. The court may, in its discretion and upon a finding stated in the record and documentation of the reasons for the deviation, order a deviation from the proportional fine required by this paragraph by varying the offense unit by no more than 10% from the offense unit assigned to the crime or civil violation.
- D. A defendant may apply to the court at any time to convert all or part of a fine to programmatic participation or community service hours by applying a credit of $20 per hour for hours of participation or service. Programmatic participation or community service may be ordered only if it does not interfere with employment, travel restrictions or family care responsibilities. The court may specify the type of programmatic participation or community service, including, but not limited to, substance use disorder treatment, mental health treatment, educational programs, job training and job readiness programs and appointments or coaching for the purposes of learning about and applying for housing, employment, health care, food assistance, general assistance and other benefits.
- E. If the court finds, based on the totality of circumstances, that the amount of the proportional fine would grossly exceed a defendant's ability to pay, the court may order a fine that is less than the proportional fine.
- F. If the court finds, based on the totality of circumstances, that the amount of a proportional fine would be disproportionate to the severity of an offense, the court may order a fine that is more than the proportional fine, subject to a limit of 10% above the amount of the proportional fine.
- G. The court may order payment of a fine in installment payments. Unless the court makes a finding on the record to justify a fine that will take a defendant more than 24 months to pay from the date of imposition of the fine or the date of release from prison or jail, the court may not order a fine to be paid in installment payments that extend beyond 24 months. A defendant who is unable to make installment payments as ordered by the court may apply to the court for modification of the court order and may not be required to be present in court for the judge to consider and rule on the application for modification.

- H. A person subject to an order of payment of a fine may not be required to be present in court to pay the fine.
 - I. The court must accept payment of fines by mail, in person and through an electronic payment system without additional charge to the defendant because of the manner in which the fine is paid.
 - J. The court shall credit all fines imposed pursuant to this subchapter and chapter 61 to the General Fund.

§1785. Collection of data; staffing

The commission shall determine the data on crimes and fines needed for the performance of its work and shall request assistance to enable it to perform its duties. The Office of the Attorney General shall provide arrest and summons data from law enforcement agencies statewide and the judicial branch shall provide data on crimes and fines as determined to be needed by the commission. Except during any regular or special session of the Legislature, the Legislative Council shall provide staff as needed by the commission to assist the commission in performing its duties under this subchapter, including but not limited to compiling the list of crimes and civil violations under this Title and a list of offense units applicable to each crime or civil violation, and compiling, analyzing, publishing and distributing to the public data related to the performance by the commission of its duties and the imposition of proportional fine sentences by the court in accordance with this subchapter.

§1786. Rulemaking

The commission shall adopt rules to implement this subchapter. Rules adopted pursuant to this section are routine technical rules as defined by Title 5, chapter 375, subchapter 2-A.

Sec. 4. Proportional Fine Commission review of fines for crimes and civil violations in the Maine Revised Statutes, Title 17-A and assignment of offense units. By January 1, 2022, the Proportional Fine Commission pursuant to the Maine Revised Statutes, Title 17-A, chapter 65, subchapter 3 shall complete its review of all criminal and civil violations under Title 17-A and the fines assigned to each crime or civil violation on the effective date of this section and shall assign to each crime and civil violation an offense unit, as defined in Title 17-A, section 1782, subsection 5, to be used in determining the amount of the proportional fine for a crime or civil violation, as provided in Title 17-A, section 1784, subsection 1, paragraph C. By February 1, 2022, the Proportional Fine Commission shall report to the Joint Standing Committee on Criminal Justice and Public Safety on the result of its work under this section and shall include legislation to be considered by the Second Regular Session of the 130th Legislature to amend Title 17-A to repeal fines in existence on the effective date of this Act and enact offense units into Title 17-A, chapter 65, subchapter 3.

39 SUMMARY

This bill establishes the Proportional Fine Commission to begin the process of change from fines that are currently set in the Maine Revised Statutes, Title 17-A for crimes and civil violations to proportional fines set by determination of an offense unit for each crime and civil violation and established by the Legislature. The bill requires that, by January 1, 2022, the Proportional Fine Commission complete its review of all criminal and civil violations under Title 17-A and the fine currently assigned to each offense. The bill requires the Proportional Fine Commission to assign to each crime and civil violation an offense unit to be used in determining the amount of the proportional fine. By February 1, 2022, the Proportional Fine Commission is required to report to the Joint Standing Committee on Criminal Justice and Public Safety on the result of its work, including legislation to be considered by the Second Regular Session of the 130th Legislature to amend Title 17-A to repeal fines set in statute and to enact offense units into Title 17-A as the foundation for the system of proportional fines. The bill requires that the system of proportional fines take effect January 1, 2023. Beginning January 1, 2023, the court is required to determine the amount of a fine by calculating the product of the offense unit and the quotient of the net income of the defendant divided by 365.
