

Owen Dubois-Laverriere

MDOC 170945

There are a few reasons I believe that the probation should return to Maine. It would help with the over population within the prison system. It would allow people to show that they have changed for the better as well as prove that we are capable of fitting into society as normal and fit citizens for society.. For an opportunity to reach out to family members. With my full sentence, my grandmother, grand father, mother and father may both become deceased... And that weighs more than heavily upon myself.. And has pushed me to wish to better myself on every account..

And this program would allow people, myself included, to be able to see our families, and prove our behaviors and poor habits have changed for the best. A second chance. Everyone deserves a second chance. From young to old, a second chance is enough for anyone to wish to better themselves.

The world has been changing faster every year.. The less familiar and comfortable from the lack of changing within the prisons, the sooner they leave the system the less likely they'd return.