

Steve Anderson
LEEDS
LD 94

Medical marijuana has been essential for managing my back pain and my extreme anxiety/PTSD. If this law is enacted, it will be far less convenient for me to get my recertification, and I could be forced to purchase my medicine on the black market. In this issue, patient's privacy rights are being ignored and trampled on, with the creation of a possible precedent for government control of medical decisions. I suspect very few people would want the government to have a list of their prescription medications. I strongly oppose this bill, and urge that it be voted down. Thank you.