

Danielle Harrington
Sabattus
LD 814

The time between the dates stated in the bill is the time when the babies are raised and taught how to live successfully in the wild and provide for themselves. If killing is allowed, the parents could be killed and then their babies would be left to fend for themselves which would disrupt their communities and make survival rate lower. All animals deserve the right to live into adulthood. A main reason why a coyote may go after livestock is it was not properly trained to hunt in the wild and is starving. Coyotes also keep deer and other animals away from crops.