

Alisha Ames
Dexter
LD 51

As a taxpayer, I am in furious that my child is ineligible to attend public school even though I pay an exorbitant amount of money for the school system.

He is being discriminating against based on our religious beliefs. As his parents, we have the right to make decisions on his behalf. We are educated and well versed in this topic and have chosen not to vaccine. My husband is a doctor and I have my BA degree. However, I should not have to divulge that personal information to anyone to be able to make this decision. I especially should not have to live in fear because of such decisions, all while being financially obligated to pay for a service through my taxes that I am not eligible to use because of my religious beliefs.

This has clearly been a violation of our constitutional rights by the state of Maine. We are currently exploring relocation options if things do not change and our rights are not restored.