

Linda Reardon
Orrington
LD 394

This is an outrageous bill and should never be passed. Parents are responsible for their children NOT school counselors or teachers. When something is wrong with a child the ONLY responsibility of the school is to tell the parents. If there are no parents it's the responsibility of the child protective services to intervene NOT school counselors or teachers. The child protection system will provide privacy as they are trained to do. This is a gross over reach of any school. Schools should care more about teaching our children the basics of education rather than political correctness and misguided views