LD 771

Please vote LD 771 ought to pass. If a woman realizes during preparations for an abortion that she does not want to go through with it, she should have the right to change her mind and withdraw consent. I have heard stories of women who have tried to back out of an abortion, but were subjected to that abortion in spite of their protests. Someone testified that there is no reason abortion should be singled out from other medical procedures for this sort of legislation. But I challenge you to find any other medical procedure where the patient's decision is a matter of life or death for another person. That is why abortion merits being singled out from all other medical procedures. The woman will have to live with the consequences of her decision for the rest of her life. She should never be denied the right to change her mind before it's too late to do so.
