

Emily Zarookian
Portland
LD 551

Federal and state laws ensuring that schools are gun-free zones have helped make k-12 schools safer, significantly reducing gun violence in these places. School-associated homicide rates decreased after federal laws restricting guns within 1000 feet of schools were adopted in the early 1990's