As a clinical psychologist, it is evident that we need better tools that work faster and more efficiently than what is already in use. Research has demonstrated that psilocybin is an effective tool in mental health treatment. With the dearth of providers having availability in Maine we need treatments that work efficiently so that more patients can be treated. Waitlists are extremely long and people with mental health issues are suffering. We need this law to pass so that more providers can get up to speed and trained in this groundbreaking treatment as soon as possible.
