As a registered nurse with a PhD I am familiar with the healing properties of the psilocybin entheogen. This plant medicine has a very low risk for addiction and has been successfully legalized in other states with no grave concerns emerging. I believe the legalization of psilocybin could create a new revenue stream for Mainers, and support people who use this medicine in microdoses to manage their health and wellness, have access to safe and effective medicine. There may also be opportunities to research the effectiveness of the medicine and trained medical professionals could offer people with conditions like PTSD, depression, substance use disorders, and chronic pain support with therapeutic use of this medicine. Thanks for your time and consideration. Carey S Clark, PhD, RN, AHN-BC, FAAN, Professor of Nursing
