I know you will probably hear from a lot more of the very loud, very vocal minority who are against abortion, and birth control, and bodily autonomy. They tend to stir up their cult following more effectively than those for whom this is not an obsession, for whom this is not something they need to think about until they suddenly do.

The Supreme Court failed US citizens when it overturned Roe vs Wade, and knowingly and dare I say--- willingly--- put the lives of those citizens at risk. Government should never have been involved in medical decisions. Those should always be made by the patient on the advice of their doctor. But always by the patient. It is their life, their body and they belong to no one but themselves.

The fact that Maine is looking to protect her citizens makes me glad I moved here, and I hope that the level headed people who tell you that birth control and abortion are medical care. Life saving and absolutely necessary.
