LD 2192 ought-TO-pass with certain provisions.

-The the Commission solicit submissions of information that may enhance the quality of this investigation. This could be done as an online submission form with the option of remaining anonymous.

I for one have viewed two videos:

- An interview done by a local broadcast station WGME (?I think) with a guest who was a close friend of Mr. Card's. His testimony would provide details that would shed light on not only Mr. Card's mental state for weeks and maybe months leading up to this tragedy. Also, his testimony would she light on various sytem failures within and between government agencies including the military.

- The second video I watched was of a Bowdoin police officer making a call to his central base after he'd spoken with Nr. Card's sister in law - presumably under the actions of the newly enacted yellow statute. His communication would also be important in shedding light on Mr. Card's mental state and the possible failures of the processes within the government's police system that had thry worked might have also averted this tragedy.

Since the perpetrator and victims are deceased, the quality not the time frame of the investigation is paramount and should be treated as such.

So one of you noted, "We better get this right." In this case truer words were never spoken. Everyone wants to dispell myths but it's precisely the actions of non-transparency and rapid execution of this investigation which could render it just another government failure.

Thank you.
