

Deborah Capwell
Belfast
LD 2007

Tribal self-determination is the right of tribes to govern themselves. However, due to legislation passed more than 40 years ago, the Wabanaki Nations in Maine have a different, more restrictive status than all 570 other federally-recognized tribes in the United States. This legislation will help address this unfair and inequitable situation for our Wabanaki neighbors.
Please pass LD2007.