Hello, members of the committee. My name is Katherine Parker-Harding of Sidney Maine. I would consider myself a rather intelligent individual, however, when I went to buy a new vehicle this previous spring I found myself easily hoodwinked into buying a used vehicle for twice what it's worth. This vehicle broke down beyond repair three months after I bought the vehicle. The salesman used words I did not understand along with promises I could not tell if he meant to keep. I knew absolutely nothing about vehicles and I was desperate as I needed to get to work to keep my job. I felt I had no choice, so I bought the hunk of junk. Now, I ask you, if a citizen of this state is hoodwinked in the same way I was, only this time he or she was tricked into giving up his second amendment rights if someone where to use fancy wording and false promises, what would come of it? This bill states no clear way of getting those rights back nor does it solve any sort of problem. The more people give up their right to bear arms the more dangerous our state becomes. How, may I ask are we to defend our state and our country if these types of laws are to continue?
