The idea that new laws need to be made when the reality is the ones already in place don't get used to there true extent is ridiculous in my opinion. I am a law abiding citizen of maine whom owns multiple firearms and uses them in a safe and responsible manner. New laws will only put strain on people loke me. I can't imagine that criminals will follow new laws if the already disregard the ones in place. We need to punish criminals rather then going after the people that follow our laws
