I am writing in OPPOSITION to the proposed RED FLAG LAW. There is no need for this proposed legislation. It is merely being foisted on Maine by out of state special interests funded by billionaire Bloomberg ("people from away"). In reality, Maine's "yellow flag" law currently in effect provided everything needed to stop the Lewiston shooter, as he had been reported to authorities many times by several individuals leading up to the tragedy. The fact that he wasn't stopped wasn't the fault of the current law, but the fault of politicians who refuse to fund police enough for such purposes. To conclude anything else flies in the face of the facts.
