So sick and tired of guns in the hands of people who are clearly threats; people who, in a sane society, one ruled by simple common sense, would not be able to buy guns, even less assault rifles that fire as fast as you can pull the trigger from 50-round drums. A 9mm handgun with a 30-round clip is another example. But all guns should be kept out of the hands of those who demonstrate clear risk by common sense standards. PLEASE do something. Pass the protection order. The large majority of US citizens want reform on background checks, etc. The people of Maine watch you, and the nation watches, for Maine has been a trend-setter. And, frankly, the world watches, hoping the USA will come to its senses. Maine can light the spark of national reform. Speak up against gun violence. The most demoralizing thing is when politicians do nothing and appear to fret.
