

Jacquelyn Lortie
Gorham Maine
LD 138

The Maine Endangered Species Act has been instrumental in protecting imperiled species in Maine since 1975. The Natural Resources Protection Act has been effectively safeguarding protected natural resources, such as sand dunes, fragile mountain areas, and significant wildlife habitat since 1988. Now is most certainly not the time to weaken two of our fundamental environmental laws. We do not want to see this misguided bill reduce their effectiveness.