I oppose LD 716. I don't understand why we would mess with the coyote hunting season when both our prey and predator populations have been doing really well. There isn't nearly as many people hunting coyotes compared to deer hunting or turkey season which is a reason why coyote hunting is year around unlike most hunting seasons. When coyotes aren't being hunted they get bold very quickly and loose there fear of humans which results in more pets and livestock issues. I've also noticed that in the areas I coyote hunt I'm not seeing anymore mange compared to when I first started hunting those areas the majority of those coyotes had it.
