

Renee Mozeliak
Healthy Acadia
LD 514

Detox is an important piece to recovery. It's the first step for many and without them the person who wants to start their recovery may not take the chance without the detox beds being available.

They give the support and start needed for many looking to start their recovery. Detox is important because without it there will be more life loss.