There needs to be more detox beds available, sobriety is very important. There is help out there but not enough. There are waiting lists that make it very hard to get in. When someone in active addiction asks for help and it's not available it is very discouraging. I would advocate for more beds and programs. I'm in recovery and would love to see things change for the better. Let's end the stigma and provide more help and support. We can end the epidemic but there needs to be more detox beds available please consider opening more detox programs

Thank you

Sincerely a former addict who's in recovery
