Volvo Construction Equipment

Volvo Construction Equipment manufactures and distributes construction equipment used off-road in the building of roads, bridges, infrastructure and other construction related projects. These products use many of the same components and suppliers that support the on-road car and truck sector. The shared components and technology are essential in bringing our products to market. The construction sector alone cannot support the volumes necessary to develop this technology without the on-road motor vehicles sector's participation. Therefore, the exemption approved for on-road vehicles needs to be specifically extended to off-road construction equipment. Our products are not routinely disposed of in landfills.

We are also seeking alignment with EPA SNAP requirements with respect to refrigerants.
