In regard to this connector, I oppose. Instead of forced sprawl, which is what this connector is ultimately about, keeping this part of southern Maine, Rural for the next generation isn't a bad aspect to enjoy. This was never about what's best for the local citizens, it's about forced growth onto people who can't afford to fight the exploitation of Cooperate greed. Keeping open hunting areas and wildlife spaces available is a joke in this portion of the state lately. This connector would've been the fissure that ruins these spaces.

Thank you,
