

Isabella More
Portland
LD 577

food is a basic human right and these kids rely on these meals for survival, cutting funding could have serious health consequences for many children. Additionally, schools are a part of the public system and services and have a duty to support these children.