Dear Committee,

The College and Career Success Coordinator plays a pivotal part in helping Adult Education students transition smoothly to community college and beyond. The one-on-one support, especially for career advice and academic planning, seems like a real game-changer. Not only are students receiving academic guidance, but they also get the kind of encouragement that can sometimes be the difference between persevering or giving up. York County Community College has had the good fortune to have a College and Career Success Coordinator for York County Adult Education in our Student Success Commons who does just that. They become part of the success network the student has at YCCC.

In addition, connecting students with complementary courses like Statistics or Quantitative Reasoning seems like a great way to enhance their learning experience and prepare them for the demands of college-level work. It's all about giving students the tools and confidence they need to succeed.

Without the College and Career Success Coordinator, many students would be left navigating their path without the guidance and support they need. This role provides crucial direction, helping students stay on track and confidently move forward in their educational and career journeys. Without it, students might struggle to find their way or miss out on opportunities to succeed.

I hope this conveys the importance of this position to the students and community they serve.

Sincerely,

Denise Treacy
