My name is Lily Bailey and I am an alumnus of the Blue Crew robotics team in Farmington, Maine. I am currently a rising junior at Saint Joseph's College majoring in community leadership with tracks in business and economics, health and wellness, and peace and justice. I am pursuing my passion for disability advocacy thanks to my involvement with robotics. I was the business captain while I was on the team, which was the leadership experience I needed to gain the necessary skills for my future. This program inspired me and many others to follow their dreams. Robotics has been an integral part of my education and continues to be part of my life. It inspired me to take on leadership roles and reach further than I ever thought possible. It has provided me with connections and friendships that will last a lifetime. Robotics provides so many wonderful opportunities that would be beneficial to students across the state.
