

Jamie Staples
Biddeford
LD 1847

As a medical cannabis patient, I strongly oppose the proposed regulations calling for excessive testing, needless track-and-trace requirements, and arbitrary potency limits across all cannabis products.

These changes would raise costs, reduce access, and put small, local producers at risk—hurting both patients and the local economy. We've already seen what happens when local manufacturing disappears: product quality drops, prices go up, and community trust erodes. Why are we doing the same to cannabis?

The current system works. It gives patients safe, affordable access to medicine made by people we know and trust. Overregulating it in ways that benefit large corporations undermines everything that makes our program successful.

Please support sustainable, community-based cannabis by rejecting these harmful proposals.

If you ruin our program here with some of the best talent for growing in the country, you're really shitting the bed. Read the room. This program brings the state so much money and if you fuck it up, WE ALL SUFFER. This is the worst move for maine and the talent we have here... and if you don't view it as talent, you flat out dont respect farmers, which have been a generational backbone of this state.