To be blunt, and coming from the West coast, this form of hyper regulation is pointless. I have worked the adult use side of the Cannabis industry in Oregon and Washington both, there is no amount of regulation that's going to stop people from doing things the wrong way. Pushing for Mass regulation that will harm more small farms and it will help under the guise of snuffing out illegal Farms is a far shot from the right thing do.

Big corporate loves the backdoor and grey areas more than the honest small batch farmer, and the financial backing to do it easier... Things to keep in mind.
