

Jacob Ripley
Gray
LD 1847

These rule changes seem unnecessary for a program that has been thriving for a decade. It's one of mine's few success stories for helping the millennial generation stay in this state and build a prosperous future. These rules will cannibalize the medical market and force people into other career paths. This is bad for the future of Maine's economy.