hello again

i really think we need to fix the AU testing before we make the med market deal with the current issues with testing , there has been to many irregularities in my history with testing we can send out the same sample to 3 different places and get back 3 totally different results . i would think inspecting places who have been flagged or come in question for compliance should be the correct action rather then relying on a lab for the results but even that would be brought into questioned for the fact that they might only have a clean facility at inspection but not any other time of the year
