People of all kinds deserve care and humanity. Our governor has already stood up to the president and made it known that you can't bully us or anyone else for any reason. I believe people are more good than bad and I don't even need the also true stats to confirm that.

Besides harming a vulnerable group and cozying up to a group of people that will endlessly attack more, more, and more what is gained by excluding our friends and neighbors when they need help the most or just at all?
