

Audrey Farber
North Yarmouth
LD 233

This bill, and every other bill being heard today, have no bearing whatsoever on the "safety" or "fairness" of the experience of girls and women in our schools or elsewhere in our state. If anything, they will make school, athletic, and other environments less safe for everyone, by enabling and codifying bullying and peer policing, and facilitating legislators — who have ABSOLUTELY NO BUSINESS to be doing so — peering into and putting on blast the lives of children in our state. The only "safety" being addressed here is the weak-minded psychological safety of the bills' sponsors and supporters, who are afraid of — honestly, I couldn't tell you — high schoolers, I guess? —; I didn't realize there were so many snowflakes here. This kind of nonsense makes me less and less inclined to want to stay in Maine, have children here, and contribute to this state in the long-term.