

Melody Larson
New Gloucester
LD 2094

For those who dream of a future in farming like myself and many of my friends as well as those currently in the industry, it is import that the state invests in supporting farmer viability. These investments will work towards ensuring a vibrant and resilient food system for our state and communities. To build a healthier and sustainable future funding the Maine Agriculture, Food and Forest Products Investment Fund, the Working Farmland Access and Protection Program, the Farmers Drought Relief Grant Program, the Maine Healthy Soils Program, and the Dairy Improvement Fund is vital. Being a farmer is increasingly tough, and not economically viable for many due to a myriad of reasons, but programs such as those above can make it better. I hope you join me in supporting farmers and LD2094