Maine School of Science and Mathematics was crucial for my very well-being as a teen. I was drowning in my sending school without being challenged. It honestly made me very depressed. I felt out a place and not where I belonged. MSSM gave me a place to be challenged and a place to belong. Now one of my children has applied because he too needs to be challenged. He's very gifted in programming but has no access at his sending school. His sending school has very little for gifted kids and has no experience sending kids to the type of university he would need. Please consider the funding that MSSM needs to continue to thrive. It truly changes lives.
