

Nicole Gamblin
Mapleton ME
LD 2106

As a public school educator, I know first hand the importance of school being a safe place to learn. Having basic needs met is a crucial factor in determining the success a student can have in school. Fear disrupts the body's ability to regulate itself and leaves everyone on edge, unable to concentrate and focus on learning. Having guns and agents in the school setting disrupts everyone's learning. No one has the right to disrupt the learning environment without going through the proper channels, including having a warrant. We must keep unnecessary interruptions out of school and honor the learning environment and all who show up every day to learn.