I am a social worker at Biddeford Middle School. A significant part of our student population has experienced trauma and/or continues to face traumatic experiences. For many of those students, school is the safest place in their lives. Every single day, my goal is to make not only my office a safe space, but our school community as a whole feel safe and inclusive. Children deserve to continue to feel safe at school, and to know that their trusted adults at school are equipped and confident in keeping them safe. Compromising that safety is unethical and unconscionable.
