The Maine Teacher Residency Program supports student teaching candidates, emergency, and conditionally certified teachers and connects them with teacher education programs to strengthen their preparation and retention in the field. $200,000 state appropriation LD 1608 In the two full years that the model has been running there have been 75 student residents who have completed the program with mentors participating in 34 different school districts across the state.

Resources for Residents

- $3,500 for tuition support for residents
- $3,000 stipend for mentor teachers for mentoring and attending 1/month 90 min online mentoring cohort workshop
- Advising on coursework to complete professional certification

General Education Technician

The school administration creates some flexibility in the job description to accommodate the teaching candidate to meet the needs of a university student teaching internship.

Co- Teaching Residency

The district creates a residency position that is a year-long co-teach in a general education classroom.

Conditionally/ Emergency Certified Teachers

Can be supported with summer, after school, or online course work to meet their certification requirements with some job flexibility to allow time for them to meet the demands of teaching and coursework.
