

Angela Wotton
Hammond

I live in a town with the majority of land owned by Irving Woodlands. Each summer there is a notice published in the weekly paper to notify landowners of aerial spraying of glyphosate. This affects all of us living in the vicinity, eliminating any choice for us. Decisions of one landowner supercede all individual landowners. Glyphosate's use has become ubiquitous between promoting for residential use, on ag land (used many times to "burn down" a cover crop), and for the past several years, blanketing forestland. It would be nice to begin thinking long-term with actions such as these, rather than short term gains. For public safety and for the forest ecosystem, I believe LD125 should be passed. Thank you.