

Janet Drew
York

I do not support increased law enforcement powers or financing, unless it is for Wabanacki land stewardships.

Otherwise, let people live

Most adults in US prison system have suffered abuse. To stop the perpetuating cycle of abuse there must be interventions for all involved that work toward repair and healing not just punitive retribution.

To heal our communities and nation, we need compassion in our policies and in the budgets to support basic needs for of vulnerable families and individuals, to treat the stressors of hopelessness, poverty, addiction with as much support as is given to buildings and beds for incarceration.