

Jean Greenough
Lagrange

The Bureau of Public Lands currently doesn't have a process or rules in place to determine if a project meets the "substantially altered" criteria, which is how two administrations in a row issued leases to CMP without the constitutionally-required Legislative vote. Establishing rules will ensure that the Maine Constitution is upheld, and that the same standards are applied to leases or sales involving our public lands, regardless of who is in power.