

Jessica Ludders
Exeter
LD 2013

Greetings all, I am a Maine resident who has a homestead that supports most of my family's yearly food supply. My family also has an organic dairy farm in Maine. We care deeply about the health of Maine people, the soil, and the water supply.

The future of farming in Maine depends on how we meet the challenges of PFAS contamination on our farms and farmland. Our farmers need robust support to address the health and financial impacts of PFAS contamination, and Maine needs robust support for research and remediation so that we have the farmland we need for our future. I support LD 2013.