

Janet Drew
York

I oppose any bill that seeks to excuse any reduction of care and services for people who are experiencing the trauma of incarceration.

The US & our state government and governor must move to humane care and repair.

Worst, this bill attempts to roll back reforms that have already been in place. Ugh!

As the nation calls for judicial reform, we recognize that people, and especially children, should not be in jail due to racism poverty and mental illness; that each incarceration causes traumas to individuals and communities; and that our system fails to help victims heal, instead oppressing accused individuals, their families, and communities (high prison #s, high recidivism, post-prison oppressions) Prisons don't make us safer. I hope you will support ongoing criminal justice reform.