

Paul Millard
Kennebunk

Federal and state law exist covering child safety. This is an attempt to broaden existing law by making child safety measures easier to define and is not a reasonable extension of the state regulations. It should be rejected.