

Stephen Littlefield
Topsham

The right to self defense is and should be at any time not just in the home. You have to be able to defend yourself and your family from the types of evil that exists in the world today. Passage of this law would protect those forced to defend themselves or others from imminent physical danger.