

Simon Cavilla
Skowhegan

I strongly Oppose this bill. Considering that a "bumpstock" does not change the function of a firearm. A simple accessory part for a firearm does not constitute the change to the mechanical design of the firearms function.

Already, machine guns, whether belt fed or fully automatic firearms are regulated under the NFA by the ATF. These types of firearms are not owned by the average gun owner due to the extensive background check required and the expensive retail value of the firearm.

I urge you to vote "Ought Not to Pass"

Thank you for your time