

David Lemoine
Swans Island

I oppose this Bill.

I have not seen any cases in Maine where this would have made anyone safer. An undetectable gun is usually made from plastic, but firing pins and ammo are still metal, so they are still detectable.

The untraceable would include home built guns and any guns without serial numbers. I have not seen them to be any problem in Maine, and this would be a restriction on home builders and those that possess old guns that do not have serial numbers. In these times, this does not seem a good use of our criminal justice system.